

1 Read about the situation. Complete the third conditional sentences with the verbs.

I didn't have a bus ticket. I had to walk. I arrived home late. I didn't have my mobile. I didn't phone my mother to tell her. My mother was angry with me.

- If I 'd had (have) a ticket, I would have got (get) the bus.
- If I (have) a ticket, I (have to) walk.
- If I (have to) walk, I (arrived) home late.
- If I (forget) my mobile, I (phone) my mother.
- If I (call) my mother, she (be) angry with me.

2 Rewrite the sentences in the third conditional. Use the words in brackets.

- I didn't know you were going to the party. I didn't go. (too)
If I'd known you were going to the party, I'd have gone too
- I thought my mum would be furious. I didn't tell her. (hadn't)
I'd
- I booked late. There were no tickets left. (earlier)
If
- You didn't try. You didn't pass the test. (might)
You
- You wasted time. We missed the train. (caught)
If
- The referee sent Tom off. We lost the game. (might / won)
If

3 Rewrite the sentences with regrets about the situations.

- I missed a really good documentary on TV last night.
I wish I'd seen the documentary on TV last night
- I'm feeling sick because I ate too much chocolate cake.
I wish
- I didn't take my parents advice and now I'm in a mess.
If only
- Emma and I have broken up because I was insensitive.
If only
- I didn't write down her address and now I can't remember it.
I wish
- Nobody told me it was Laura's birthday so I didn't say anything.
I wish

4 Write a response to the statements. Use should/shouldn't have.

- I got a fine because I drove too fast.
You shouldn't have driven so fast
- I forgot to tell you I'd be late.
You
- I bit my sister's head off.
You
- I've spent all my money on video games.
You
- I haven't finished my history project.
You
- I stayed up too late last night.
You