

1 Replace the underlined phrases with ones, those, that or did so.

- Look, you wanted me to sell the car and I sold the car.did so.....
- The backroom staff at this football club do a vital if uncelebrated job: the vital if uncelebrated job of keeping the players fit, healthy and ready to play.
- Many people, such as the people you can see around you, are very pleased with our decision to save the local library from demolition.
- There are many beautiful old castles in Wales. The beautiful old castles we can see in these pictures date back to the period of Norman rule.
- The citizens of this country asked us to increase spending on the health service and we increased spending on the health service.
- There are many fascinating examples of Renaissance paintings on display. The Renaissance paintings in this next room are all by Michelangelo.

2 Match the questions with the answers.

- Will Julia help me?e.....
 - Won't people object to the proposal?
 - Who says so?
 - Is Sheila at home?
 - Do we have a maths test tomorrow?
 - Are you going to the cinema tonight?
- I hope so. I want to see the new Aardman film.
 - I think so. She usually is at this time.
 - I don't think so. We had one last week.
 - Dad says so. And I think he knows what he's talking about.
 - I'm sure she'll do so.
 - I don't think so. Everyone knows that this is the right thing to do.

3 Rewrite the sentences using the words in brackets.

- Lovely to see you again, Marina.
How are you doing? (it)
.....It's lovely to see you again, Marina......
.....How are you doing?.....
- Not one of his best films. I prefer Rear Window. (it)
.....
- Great coffee. We should buy more of this stuff. (this)
.....
- Not true, Tony. I completely disagree with you. (that)
.....
- Not seen him for ages. What's he up to these days? (I)
.....
- Have a good time at the party last night? (you)
.....
- Why carry on working so hard? She should take it easy for a change. (she)
.....
- Going out later. Do you want to come? (I)
.....