- A: Hi, Alice! It's Ashley speaking.
 B: Oh hi, Ashley! What are you doing?
 A: I'm having a rest right now. But I'm studying for the History test tomorrow.
 B: Oh no, poor you! Do you need some help?
 A: No, thanks. I need a holiday!
 B: Let's meet in the park in an hour.
 A: I'm sorry. I can't meet you in the park. I'm really worried about this test.
 B: Oh, come on! I can give you a hand with learning the history dates.
 A: OK then. What about you? Are you busy this week?
 B: Not really. At the moment I'm tidying up my bedroom.
 A: Good girl! Sorry, but I have to go now. My mother's calling me.

- A: Are you listening to me?
 B: Yes, but I don't know what the words mean.
 A: Do you want to learn English?
 B: No, I don't. I hate English!
 A: Do you do your English homework?
 B: Yes, but I can't remember the words.
 A: That's what Gianna said last year. But this year she's making lots of progress.
 B: Yes, but Gianna's cousin lives in London. She goes to London every year.

- A: What's your older brother doing now?
 B: He's having a year off before he goes to university next year?
 A: Is he travelling around the world?
 B: No, he's working as a volunteer in Namibia.
 A: That's fantastic. Is he enjoying it?
 B: Yes, he is. He says he's working very hard but he's learning a lot about Africa.
 A: Is he getting any money for his work?
 B: No, but he doesn't want any money. He wants to help people.
 A: What sort of jobs does he do there?
 B: He's working in a hospital, so sometimes he carries people who can't walk.

- A: Are you enjoying the party?
 B: No, I'm not. I don't know any people here.
 A: Why aren't you dancing?
 B: Because I don't like the music.
 A: Would you like a drink?
 B: No, thanks. I never drink beer.
 A: Do you want something to eat?
 B: No, I'm not hungry now. Can you introduce me to that girl, please?
 A: Do you mean the girl who is standing in the corner? That's my girlfriend.
