- A: I think that one day kids will have all their lessons at home on computers.
- B: Do you mean they won't go to school any more?
- A: No, and there won't be any teachers.
- B: That's crazy! How will kids meet other kids?
- A: I reckon they'll join clubs and meet other kids there.
- B: But how will that work for parents? They have to go to work and earn money.
- A: Most parents won't go to work. They'll work from home on their computers.
- B: I'm not sure that will happen. But I think that computers will be more important in schools.

- A: What do you think you'll do in the future?
- B: I think I'll go to university and study marine biology.
- A: Really? Will you get a good job with a degree in marine biology?
- B: It depends. I probably won't be rich, but I'll be happy.
- A: Would you like to live abroad?
- B: Yes, I'd like to live in Australia. I think I'll marry an Australian and have three children.
- A: Will you learn to drive?
- B: No, I won't. My wife will learn to drive. I'll have a boat.

- A: Would you like me to tell you about your future?
- B: How can you do that?
- A: I can read the lines on the palm of your hand. It's called 'palmistry'.
- B: I think that's nonsense!
- A: It doesn't matter. It's only a bit of fun.
- B: OK then. Tell me about my future.
- A: Well this line's very long, so you'll have a very long life.
- B: Great!
- A: But this line's broken, so you'll probably get divorced.
- B: Maybe I won't get married then!

- A: What will people be like one hundred years from now?
- B: I'm sure that people will be fatter than now.
- C: Really? Why do you think that?
- B: Because they'll use computers for everything.
- A: Won't they do any sport?
- B: People will have shorter legs.
- C: Oh, that's nonsense! Maybe people's fingers will be thicker and longer.
- A: Will people read books?
- C: No, there won't be any books. People are already using eBooks.
