- A: Happy New Year!
- B: Happy New Year to you too! What are your New Year's Resolutions?
- A: Well, I'm going to take up yoga. It'll help me relax.
- B: That sounds good. Why don't you check out that new yoga school in York Street?
- A: Yes, I think I will. And I'm going to give up chewing gum.
- B: Good idea. It's a disgusting habit! My father says he's going to give up chocolate, but he says that every year.
- A: What changes are you going to make this year?
- B: I'm going to study hard for my exams in June. And I'm not going to eat so much. I'm too fat.
- A: You aren't too fat – you're perfect as you are.

- A: Look at the sky. It's going to be a lovely day later today.
- B: Yes, it is. Are you going to the office this morning?
- A: No, I'm going to work from home. Why?
- B: Because my friend Joe is going to come home with me after school. We're going to do our homework together.
- A: I hope you're not going to play videos games all afternoon. Look at the time! You're going to be late.
- B: Yes, I think I'm going to miss the bus.
- A: You got up too late. You need to set the alarm for 7 o'clock on a school day.
- B: I did, but it didn't go off.
- A: You said that last time. Your teacher's going to tell you off again.

- A: Come on, you're too slow. We mustn't be late or they won't let us in.
- B: We don't have to go, you know.
- A: Yes, we do. It's Harry's big night. We can't miss Harry's first show.
- B: Yes, you're right. We must give him our support.
- A: Can't you run faster than this?
- B: No, I can't. I must do something to get fitter.
- A: You said you're going to take up jogging this year.
- B: Yes, I am, I am! And I mustn't eat unhealthy food any more.
- A: No. You don't have to change your lifestyle radically, you know, but you must look after yourself or you'll have a heart attack.

- A: Happy New Year! What did you do last night?
- B: We went to a New Year's Eve party.
- A: You look really tired. What time did you go home?
- B: Well, we left the party soon after midnight, but we saw an accident on the way home.
- A: What happened?
- B: A car hit a woman on a bicycle.
- A: Oh no! Was she hurt?
- B: Yes, she was, but not badly, luckily. We called an ambulance and waited with her until it arrived.
