

1

- A: How often do you use a computer?
B: I use it every day.
A: What do you use it for?
B: I use it for chatting with my friends, playing computer games and surfing the net.
A: Do you like social networks?
B: Yes, they're really good for staying in touch with friends and sharing music and videos.
A: Can you imagine life without computers?
B: No, if we didn't have computers, life would be really boring.
A: Teenager didn't have computers in the past, but they found things to do.
B: Yes, but it would be very difficult to do anything now without computers. We use computers for everything.

2

- A: If you had to buy a new computer, what would you get?
B: I'd definitely get a laptop. That way if I went on holiday, I could take it with me.
A: A netbook is smaller and cheaper than a laptop. Wouldn't you consider getting one of them?
B: I might get a netbook if I already had a laptop, but if I could only have one computer, I'd buy a laptop.
A: What's wrong with a netbook?
B: A netbook has a smaller screen and a smaller keyboard, so if I had to work on the computer, a netbook wouldn't be the best thing.
A: And if you wanted to watch films, the screen would be too small.
B: Exactly! I think netbooks are good for travelling because they're lighter and more compact.
A: How many hours a day do you spend in front of the computer?
B: Three or four.

3

- A: What do you do in your free time?
B: I have my own website where I blog and upload photographs and videos.
A: Do you design your own graphics?
B: Yes, I do. I design websites for other people, too.
A: Wow! So you're really talented. If you were offered a job in computing, would you take it?
B: Yes, as long as it was something interesting and creative.
A: If I were you, I'd go to university first.
B: What's the point? I can earn a lot of money without going to university.
A: Because it's a good experience. You have all your life in front of you to be in the job market.
B: If I had the chance to work as a web designer now, I'd leave school.

4

- A: What are you reading?
B: I'm reading a book about how to be successful.
A: I never read that sort of book. It's not worth it.
B: It says we all have hidden talents.
A: I think that's ridiculous.
B: It's a shame that you feel that way.
A: So what have you discovered about your hidden talents?
B: It says that I'm brilliant at talking to people and organising, so I'm likely to be the manager of a big company.
A: You're not organized at all! It just goes to show – those books are rubbish.
