

- 1 A: What part-time job do you do?
B: I babysit for a couple with two small children on Friday evenings.
A: How long have you been doing that?
B: For about two years now.
A: Do you like it?
B: Yes, it's really easy money. I just watch TV or read most of the time. The children don't often wake up.
A: Have you learnt anything new doing the job?
B: Not much. I've discovered that I'm good at reading bedtime stories to children, and that I enjoy it.
A: Do you know what you want to do in the future?
B: Well, I think I'm good with people in general. I'm very patient, so I might find a job in the health care sector.
A: Well, good luck, and thanks for answering my questions.

- 2 A: How's your part-time job going?
B: It's going really well. It's a bit exhausting, but I love it.
A: How long have you been doing it now?
B: I've been doing it since I finished my exams last June.
A: How many hours do you do a week?
B: Only six. I work Friday and Saturday evenings.
A: Have you met a lot of new people?
B: Yes, I have. That's the best thing about it. I have a good time with the other people who work there, and I love talking to the customers.
A: Has the job taught you anything new about yourself?
B: Yes, I thought I was shy, but in actual fact I've discovered that I find it easy to get on with people and make friends.
A: That's great!

- 3 A: What do you think I should wear to the interview?
B: You should wear smart clothes – a shirt and a jacket. And you'd better go to the hairdresser's – your hair looks terrible.
A: How do you think I should behave? Do you think I should smile a lot?
B: I think it's important to be polite and to look interested.
A: What other advice can you give me?
B: Well, you definitely shouldn't be late. In fact, I think you'd better try to get there fifteen minutes early.
A: Do you think I should ask them how much they're going to pay me?
B: Well, they really ought to tell you that, so if they don't I think it's alright to ask.
A: Should I prepare my answers before the interview?
B: You ought to think about what questions they're likely to ask you, and decide what you're going to answer. You can guess a lot of the questions.
A: Thanks Mum.

- 4 A: How did you hear about the job? Did you see the advertisement in the Gazette?
B: No, a friend told me about it. He's an employee in this company.
A: What are you doing at the moment?
B: I've been unemployed for the last six months, but during that time I've done a course in IT.
A: Have you got any qualifications?
B: I've got a school diploma.
A: What did you do in your last job?
B: I designed websites. I think I'm really good at graphic design.
A: I'm afraid the salary for this post will not be very high. We're looking for a trainee.
B: That's alright. I really want to get some experience at the moment, so I accept that.
