

1 Students' own answers

- 2 A: Many species of animal are in danger of dying out over the next 50 years.
- B: Yes, 50 years from now, many species of animal will have become extinct. We will soon completely finish all our natural resources.
- A: Yes, before long we will have used up all our natural resources. We need to find a way of getting rid of nuclear power.
- B: Don't worry! By 2050 we will have disposed of nuclear power. Temperatures around the world will go up by as much as six per cent in the next century.
- A: That's right. A hundred years from now, temperatures around the world will have increased by as much as six per cent. Every second ten people in the world die of hunger.
- B: Wow! That means that in ten seconds from now a hundred people will have starved to death.

3 Students' own answers

- 4 A: Where are you going on holiday?
- B: We're going to the Canary Islands. This time next week, I'll be lying on a beach.
- A: Great! I'm going to Scotland, so I won't be lying on any beaches while I'm there.
- B: No, but you'll probably visit a lot of lochs and castles. Have you warned Nessie that you're coming yet?
- A: Yes, she'll have received my email by now.
- B: So this time next week you'll be having tea with her.
- A: You never know with Nessie. She can be a bit unreliable.
- B: Let's meet up when we get back. Are you going to Mark's party on 25th July?
- A: Well, we'll be travelling back that day, so I'm not sure.
- B: You might be too tired. Let's meet the following day. You'll have recovered from the journey by then.