Live. Learn. Feel.
Join us on the journey to successful learning.

Cambridge University Press and Cambridge Assessment English invite you to join us at the centre of our mission as we explore student-centred learning, the journey to get there and the rewards we receive upon reaching it, with Mark Meredith and Rachel Jeffries. Set off on your own personal pathway of discovery exploring a world of communication, collaboration and creativity.

Stephen Hasler will then delve deeper into the realm of critical thinking, where we shall consider a working definition of the term, and look at different activities that can be used both in and outside the classroom to sharpen our students' critical faculties.

Finally, Simon Ward will bring the journey to a close by looking at how using positive psychology approaches to engage children and young people opens up their willingness to put in extra effort, improves learning outcomes and enhances well-being for teachers and students alike. This session examines how the practical applications of positive psychology can be introduced to students of all ages and impact on their emotional, social and psychological well-being.
